A Conversation with Pamela Haynes, President, Board of Governors, California Community Colleges

INSERT PHOTO

Pamela Haynes was initially appointed to the California Community Colleges Board of Governors by Governor Jerry Brown in 2016, and in December 2020 she was elected President of the BOG having previously served as Vice President.

Upon assuming the presidency, Haynes said, "Our system stands at a critical intersection requiring a response: a world-wide pandemic, the dislocation of workers across multiple industry sectors that has resulted in an economic downturn and demands for social and racial equity and the removal of barriers within our institutions. My focus will be on advocating for our students and ensuring the passage of an equitable budget that recognizes the vital importance of California's Community Colleges to the economic recovery of the state."

Pamela Haynes previously served on the Los Rios Community College District Board of Trustees for more than 17 years, including three terms as board president. She is currently a member of the Los Rios Foundation Board. During her professional career, President Haynes served as a deputy director and senior consultant for the California State Assembly, Speaker's Office of Member Services. Her depth of California community college system leadership experience, and her understanding of the technical and political aspects of the state, system, and district budget process will provide unique insights for this year's closing session.
